The Zine with a Mission

Oh and there are no zines, Oh and the shows bore me, Oh and its so trendy to move to San Francisco, Oh and Philly is so boring and on and on and on and Oh FUCK YOU Well it is my own personal opinion that things are what you make them and if things in Philly aren't good enough for you either do something about, shut up, or move (to S.F. of course). Start a zine or a band or put on a show if you don't like any that are going on currently. Well this is what I think (all comments welcome)

PERSONAL FROM:

Rich Poor

A man obsessed & time is running out!

Greetings, This is my column. Now I am sure that you are all saying So? Well if you don't want to read it don't. Anyway, I've got a few things to say and rather than keep running off at the mouth, I decided to combine 2 of my hobbies (drinking and talking) into this zine. At present there are no zines in Philly (unless you count Unknown Crime #3, which may or may not be coming out soon, and I don't think Todd will put out any more) so A.T. is sort of filling a void. If you don't like this zine or if you think it is stupid → Fuck You! because chances are you aren't putting one out. If you are, I can write what I want anyway.

Thanks to anyone who helped and anyone who wants to or who wants to send me something for the next issue send it here: Rich

I'll print about anything because that is less stuff for me to do and I will review about anything and put an ad of something in. (As you will see)

In this little space left I will write my ~~major~~ major gripe: I am pig-biting mad about everyone who complains about the Philly scene: Oh, there are no good shows (Fuck you), or Oh, there are no good bands (Fuck You), the only people at shows are young kids and none of the old people come any more,

Philadelphia BANDS

→ We at A.T. in no way claim to be accurate or anything like that!

Butcher Brothers: Have moved to San Francisco and are playing shows there with a new guitar player.

CONSENTING ADULTS: I thought these guys had finally consented to disappear but Eddie says that they are going to play at the Underground Inn.

Circle of Shit: Occasionally they play, occasionally we care, but they are getting better.

Dropouts: Played too long for a cover band that stole their name from Spiritual Electric Love Muffin: Even more powerful with 2 guitars. Destined for greatness.

5 Story Fall: Good reggae; a change of pace. Will they hit the top 40?

Fat Howard's Army: These rock gods have been in limbo ever since the strange disappearance of Fat Howard, but there are new rumors of a resurrection.

Dead Milkmen: Rising Starz → A 12 inch EP (as yet unheard) and a tour this summer.

Black Flag Beware. PUNK ROCK STARDOM

Flag of Democracy: Many people (including Paul Guada) thought this band was breaking up since Jim played with the Little Gentlemen. But they are wrong and you would know it if you heard FOD Live on KPRV.

Decentral: Still around, as good as usual.

Homo Picnic: What can strike terror into the tiny little minds of Nazi skinheads? The new H.P. demo "Blood on the Walls" we are now working on new songs and hope to play again.

B.B. of Sweden Impact is the new bass player.

Herpes: A West Philly band who we hope will soon get it together.

Initial Attack: Back together, played w/ Rata Rata R. Example of wide variety of Philly bands.

Little Gentlemen: With Jim of F.O.D. on temporary guitar and Rich Hotelling playing drums they were really hot. Why Were You Born?

McRad: No Guns, No McRad, Who Cares?

More Friends: West Philly's Finest! One of my favorite bands. Not the drug - BETTER (but they're good with drugs also) MGO's: New band w/ Chuck Mochan on bass and other I can't remember (kinda sure) hope to see them soon.

Mr. Mehta: Self-Proclaimed as "art rock"? Anyway the sound pretty good.

Oblivion: Metal Gods who will soon hit Philly at the Animal benefit show.

Other Voices: Yawn → we already have one David Bowie who needs another.

Peasants with Pitchforks: Surprised the shit out of me, they are really good.

Psychotic Norman: Hard to spell but great to listen to. Get a copy of their XPM Live Tapes.

Ruin: Lots of new songs. Their sets are a gospel but long. Just back from a trip to California and they have a new 3 song tape.

Sadistic Exports: Looking for a singer but the band lives on.

Seed of Terror: I don't know

Sweden Impact: B.B. is also playing for the picnic. The Impact is going to Bethlehem, Pa.

VIII: They'll hate me no matter what I write, but I hear that they aren't the old selves any more and their dirty rock isn't so good. heavy metal nightmare?

YO - IF you think this cartoon over here → looks familiar, that's cause it I ripped it off from Cregrap #14 which doesn't come out anymore which sucks But if you are reading this, you suck too because no fanzine come out any more. What is this? are y'all just sitting back, satisfied w/ the lame coverage that we get in Max Lin'k if it's ever in there. It's real easy to put out a fanzine. All you have to do is think about people to fuck upon and then fuck up on them. Like those stupid fuckin' little kids who put Suicidal Tendencies on the back of their shirts and SHIT! they are Joe Punk, ready to go out and be mean on the scene. Fuck you, you little twits. You're all Pencil-neck geeks, pre-fabricated dog biscuits I mean, S.Tendencies were on all right bands but why don't you asshole all cut little tails coming out of your hair and then you'll be even cooler. What the Fuck? But if all you will do with Suicidal Tendencies on the back of your shirt and little tails coming out of the backs of your heads are so cool why don't you put out a fanzine and then you can fuck up on all the stupid assholes in the scene who you hate like all the people with mohawks or all the shiny head or all the students or all the art fags or all the junks or all the Suburbans. Then you can be the punk and scene literati and write about everybody else and how fucked up they are. But actually there are alot of other better things to write about because Philly is a cool scene and every body gets along real good with no problems. Philly scene is good, tight with no problems. Respect your scene because it is the best in the scene.

NEW RECORD REVIEWS AND TAPES

I don't buy alot of new records but here is what I got:
(or borrowed)

More Friends: "Live at Abe's" - A rockin' live tape, better than the drug. "Gidget Goes Insane" is my favorite. Their address is on the Luna Ticks Paper. Get one if you can.

Nobody's Favorite: "Worse Than Live" - Grinding guitar and screeching vocals annoy many but this is a good tape for my ears to wiggle by. "Hellhouse" and "Riled by a Nazi" are my favorites. Write them at: N.F., 114 Chester Ave., Milmont Park, PA. 19033. Get it.

The Intred: "Demo" - These guys are just a little band from West Virginia that a guy I write to is in. (Art is his name). This tape is high quality. and I think it sounds good. Write to: Art Reco % Intred, 56's First St., Morgantown W VA. 26505

Numb Tongue, No Taste Comp. Tape: The quality is just OK but there are several good bands on here. Also there are bands on this from Italy (Vista-trista) W Germany (Doc Wör Mirrow), and Youngshun. All of which is very interesting. Write to: Volker Stewart, (Art Kiskazian) 1723 Escalona Dr., Santa Cruz, CA 95060.

Homo Picnic: "Blood on the Walls" - Of course I like this tape but then I'm partial to this band. 6 songs + a baggie w/ lyrics for 3 dollars. Look at the ad for the address etc.

Motorhead: "No Remorse" - Buy this double record and get Motorhead's good songs without having to get all their other records. This has all of the good ones on it.

Couch Flambeau: "Mammal Insect Marriage" - This isn't new but I just heard it. These guys are from MILWAUKEE and they're great in addition to coming from a good beer city. Write here: I like "I Want to Show You" and "I don't Want to be an Eddie" is a classic. 1813 E. Locust St. Milwaukee WI

"Rock Against Hunger" ← This is a reprint from the University City News of Feb 8. Let's Helps Local Residents Hope no one gets sued!

By Joseph A. Sorrentino

We may not like to admit it, but there are a number of needy people in the University City area. These people need clothing and shelter; more importantly, they also need food. While many of us wonder what to do, two University City residents have done something. Tim Dunn, 25, and Chuck Meehan, 22, have begun Rock Against Hunger, a non-profit organization which raises money and food for the needy.

Rock Against Hunger started in October, 1984 and has since staged approximately one dozen rock shows whose purpose is to help the hungry. Admission to the shows is low (generally $4) and people are asked to bring one non-perishable food item to the concert. According to Dunn, the response has been good and the majority of people do bring at least one item. Lately, some friendly competition has begun between patrons to see who can bring the largest item. All of the food collected is donated to the University City Hospitality Coalition, a group which prepares meals for the needy three nights each week.

The concerts promoted by Rock Against Hunger are hardly what one would call top-40 pop music. The bands featured play loud, aggressive music and go by such names as "More Friends," "Ruin" and "Homo Picnic." But the people attending the concerts are orderly. The promoters insist that no alcohol be served or brought in and the shows end by midnight, allowing people, especially younger ones, to arrive home at a reasonable hour.

Currently, there are concerts at 8:00 every Saturday night at Abe's Steaks, 20 South 40th (near Market St.), which promote local talent. The hall at Abe's holds about 200 people and the money collected pays for the band, the hall rental fee, and the lighting. Rock Against Hunger has also put on larger shows at Houston Hall and at the Community Education Center. Those shows generally feature bands which have a larger following, and therefore attract larger crowds. The money collected at such shows has been donated to Oxfam of America, a Boston-based group involved with sending supplies to Ethiopia. Concerts have also been staged for the benefit of the Community Education Center.

Perhaps one of the most intriguing things about the organizers of Rock Against Hunger is that they do not receive any money from the concerts, yet are not employed full time, earning money from various odd jobs. But Dunn does not want to be considered a philanthropist. He insists he and Meehan promote the concerts because of their mutual love of the music perhaps to give punks a better image. If their interest in music can be made to help others, then that makes it even better, they say.

Dunn has some definite ideas about what needs to be done in University City to help people. In addition to raising food and money, he says groups need to pool their resources. Rather than having a number of groups working separately, a coalition is needed to make a concerted effort to aid the poor. This coalition, he believes, should bring together church and non-church groups.

In spite of their desire not to be labeled philanthropists, the organizers of Rock Against Hunger have helped many people in University City, and their efforts have created a community atmosphere in the area. Whether they call themselves philanthropists or just two young men who use their love of music to help others really does not matter. Their deeds speak for them.
